

Chanel Grenaway-Mills

Chanel Grenaway has over 20 years of experience focused on integrating equity, inclusion, and intersectionality practice into workplace cultures. She has a range of expertise from work with Foundations, multi-service non-profit agencies, and academic institutions. She is currently supporting organizations to improve their equity and inclusion outcomes through equity assessments, facilitation and training, community engagement, and action planning. She also coaches leaders, board members, and staff teams on how they can normalize conversations about racism and integrate equity-centred approaches in their programs, policies and services.